The Examination of Tsara'at 13: 1-8

The examination of tsara'at DIG: What were the three examination stages? What was the purpose of teaching the concepts of being ritually clean and ritually unclean? How did God use tsara'at as an example of the holiness for the Israelites? How can believers determine their own spiritual health? When you have been victorious in a battle with a sin-symptom, what led to your victory? What practical warnings against sin would you give others?

REFLECT: How do you distinguish between the kingdom of sin and death, and Kingdom of Life and Righteousness? What guides your decisions? What is your "owners manual?" In what sense is Yeshua Messiah your own personal physician (Isaiah 53:5)? Why is it that unless the heart is changed, there can be no solving the sin problem? What happens to the "good news" message of the Gospel when the "bad news" of sin defiling all it touches is left out?

Beginning with the previous Torah portion (to see link click Bc - On the Eighth Day), and continuing with this one, we have been examining the concepts of being ritually clean or ritually unclean in terms of what they can teach us about two kingdoms: the kingdom of sin and death (see Bv - The Test of Tsara'at), and the Kingdom of Life and Righteousness (see Cg - The Test of M'tsora). There were seven cases of tsara'at given in Chapter 13, this is the first.

The Torah says that only a priest was able to make the diagnosis. The initial problem faced by the priest was to determine whether the sufferer had acute tzara'at or some lesser ailment with which it might be confused, but which would heal on its own. The diagnosis consisted of three stages. They form something of a logical flow chart, with the response of the priest determining what happened next. At each step there are only two possibilities: the person would be either ritually clean or ritually unclean (see Bw - Holiness and Tsara'at).

The first stage (13:1-4): ADONAI said to Moshe and Aaron, “When someone develops on his skin a swelling (Hebrew: se'et), scab (Hebrew: saphat) or white, bright spot (Hebrew: baheret) which could develop into the disease tzara'at, he is to be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons who are priests at the Tabernacle. The priest is to examine the sore on his skin; if the hair in the sore has turned white, and the sore appears to go deep into the skin, it is tzara'at, and after examining him the priest is to declare him ritually unclean. Literally, the object of the verb is the tsara'at, not the person, but here, and in some following verses we find instances of metonymy, a literary device whereby, in this instance, the disease is interchangeable with its victim. Therefore, in referring to tzara'at, the text also refers to the sufferer. If, however, the bright spot on his skin is white, but it does not appear to go deep into the skin, and its hair has not turned white, then the priest will isolate him for seven days (13:4). Rashi notes that a special house was used for this purpose. The incident of Miriam's affliction of tsara'at, as recounted in Numbers 12:14-15, informs us that the place of quarantine was outside the camp. Here again we have an instance of metonymy. Literally the text states that the tsara'at was quarantined, actually meaning the diseased individual.²⁰⁵

The priests were, of course, reluctant to declare a disease tsara'at because of the enormous sorrow it would bring upon the victim. He would be forced to withdraw from his family and from society. Thus, the priesthood was meticulous with the examination. No one wanted to declare a person tsara'at. When in doubt, they ruled leniently. Every dubious case regarding tsara'at symptoms is to be regarded as ritually clean (Negaim 5:1). However, if the symptoms still persisted, then the sufferer would continue to be tested.

The second stage (13:5): On some occasions, tsara'at could not be diagnosed with only one examination. If so, on the seventh day the priest would examine him again, and if the sore appeared the same as before, both in size and shape, but had not spread on the skin, then the priest would isolate him for seven more days. This allowed time to see if the sore grew. During this quarantine, the sufferer was regarded as ritually unclean, but not contaminating. If there was no new spreading after seven more days, then the process of purification would begin. The procedure was rather elaborate: After being declared ritually clean, the priest required the person to bring the following items for cleansing: (1) an earthen bowl filled with spring water; (2) two birds of the same type (either doves or pigeons); (3) a stick of cedar wood; (4) a hyssop branch; (5) a scarlet thread. The priest then commanded that one of the birds be slaughtered over the earthen bowl filled with fresh spring water, with its blood mixed with the water. The living bird, the piece of stick of cedar wood, and the hyssop branch were tied together using the scarlet thread, and the entire bundle was dipped into the earthen bowl. The blood and water mixture was then sprinkled seven times on the head of the person, and the other bird was set free.

Next, the person would wash his clothes, shave off his beard, and bathe in a mikveh. After that, he could return to the general camp - but he could not return to his home for seven more days. On the eighth day, he would bathe again and offer several offerings: a burnt offering (see Ai), a grain offerings (see Aj), a purification offering (see Al), and a guilt offering (see Am). But the blood of the guilt offering was sprinkled on his earlobe, thumb, and foot. Only after performing this ritual would the person be declared ritually clean by the priest. His life of ritual uncleanness would be like a man who was brought back from the dead to renewed life.²⁰⁶ But if the t'sara'ah had spread, the priest would quarantine him for another seven days.

The third stage (13:6-8): On the seventh day the priest was to examine him again, and if the sore has faded and hasn't spread on the skin, then the priest would declare him ritually clean - it was only a scab. Then the person would follow the same procedure as above, be declared ritually clean, and allowed to return to normal life and have access to the Tabernacle. But if the scab had spread further on the skin after he had been examined by the priest, he would let himself be examined by the priest yet again. The priest would examine him, and if he saw that the scab had spread on his skin, then the priest would declare him ritually unclean and contaminating because it was acute tzara'at (see By - The Examination of Spreading Tsara'at).²⁰⁷ The tsara'at had to become visibly worse for two weeks. No medication was prescribed and the only further action that would be taken was quarantine (see Second Kings 15:5).

ADONAI was using tsara'at as an illustration of the kingdom of sin and death.

There was to be no compromise when it came to tsara'at, and there was to be no compromise in the purity and holiness of the individual Israelite so that he would not die in a state of ritual uncleanness for defiling God's holy Tabernacle/Temple (Leviticus 15:31).

Dear Heavenly Father, Praise You for being a holy and pure God! Thank You for the heaven that Yeshua is preparing (John 14:1-3) for those who love and follow Him (Romans 10:9-10), is a place of great peace (John 16:33; Ephesians 1:9-14), wonderful joy (Revelation 21:4) and perfect holiness (Revelation 21:7). I am so blessed that in Your wise mercy and grace (Ephesians 2:8-9), You knew that I could ever be holy enough on my own to enter heaven; so You opened the path to heaven by transferring all the righteousness of Yeshua to me when I believed in Him as my Lord (Ephesians 1:4-7, 2 Corinthians 5:21). It was Your plan from the beginning for Yeshua's blood to cleanse those who would choose to believe in Him (Ephesians 1:4,12-14). In Yeshua's holy name and power of His resurrection. Amen

We, like the ancient Israelites, should not compromise our spiritual purity and holiness. We need to realize that there is a spiritual battle going on in our lives. John warns us: do not love the world or the things of the world. If anyone loves the world, then the love of the Father is not in him; for all that is in the world - the desires of the old nature, the desires of the eyes, and pride in our achievements and possessions - these are not from the Father, but are from this world. The world is passing away, and also its lusts; but the one who does the will of God lives forever (First John 2:15-17).

The kingdom of the world and the kingdom of God are inherently incompatible, mutually exclusive and opposed to one another (First John 4:5-6, 5:4-5; John 15:19; Galatians 6:14). True believers, therefore, will not be characterized by a habitual love for the world, nor will worldly people demonstrate a genuine affection for the Gospel and its Lord (John 3:20; Acts 7:51, 13:8-10, 17:5 and 13; Romans 8:7; Colossians 1:21, and First Thessalonians 2:14-16).

Clearly, there is an unmistakable line of demarcation between the things of God and the things of the world. The ongoing moral and ethical deterioration of contemporary culture makes this obvious. Even brief consideration provides a lengthy list of cultural agendas that are aggressively hostile to biblical teachings: an attack on the traditional family by feminism; an active promotion of sexual promiscuity and homosexuality (see Ae - The Bible and Homosexual Practice); an emphasis on materialism and hedonism by the secular media; a steady decline in standards of personal integrity and business ethics; the confusion of right and wrong by post-modern relativism; and so on . . .

To support his rebuke, John doesn't offer a long list of specifics or detailed illustrations. Instead, he presents three general reasons believers must not love the world: because of who they are, because of what the world does, and because of where the world is going.

1. Because of who believers are: If anyone loves the world, then the love of the Father is not in him (First John 2:15b). Because believers are forgiven (Psalm 86:5, 130:3-4; Isaiah 1:18; Matthew 26:28; Luke 1:77; Ephesians 1:7 and 4:32; Colossians 1:14, 2:13-14, 3:13; First John 2:12), have a true knowledge of God (Second Corinthians 2:14, 4:6; Ephesians 4:13; Colossians 1:9-10), have the Word of God living in them (Psalm 119:11; Colossians 3:16), have overcome Satan (James 4:7; First John 4:4), and have an increasingly intimate relationship with the Father (First John 2:12-14), they cannot love the world. Anyone who loves the world demonstrates that the love of the Father is not in him. Like Demas, such a spiritual defector reveals that any previous claim to know and love God was nothing but a lie (First John 2:19).

Nevertheless, the basic identity of believers as the children of ADONAI does not make us immune to the world's allure. Because we are still sinners - saved by grace - we are tempted through our remaining flesh by the world's behaviors and schemes (Matthew 26:41; First Corinthians 10:13; Galatians 6:1; Ephesians 6:16; James 1:12-14; First Peter 5:8-9). Whether the temptation comes from worldly priorities, worldly amusements, worldly riches, or worldly lusts, we need to resist the world's efforts to seduce us. Yeshua warned His listeners: No servant can serve two masters; for he will either hate the one and love the other, or else he will be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and money (Luke 16:13).

2. Because of what the world does: For all that is in the world - the desires of the old nature, the desires of the eyes, and pride in our achievements and possessions - these are not from the Father, but are from this world (First John 2:16). Although it manifests itself in external actions, the roots of sin go much deeper, embedded in the very fabric of the depraved human heart. Sin permeates the fallen mind, internally defiling the sinner in every aspect of his being (Matthew 15:18-20). Thus, the TaNaKh likens sin to a deadly plague (First Kings 8:38), filthy garments (Zechariah 3:3-4), or even filthy menstrual rags (Isaiah 64:6). Sin is so foul that Ha'Shem hates it (Proverbs 15:9) and sinners loathe themselves because of their inherent weakness (Ezeki'el 6:9). Sin is so humanly incurable that sinners have no capacity in and of themselves to remedy their sin

(Romans 8:7-8; First Corinthians 2:14; Ephesians 2:1). Finally, sin is universal. David wrote: They have all turned aside, together they have become corrupt; there is no one who does good, not even one (Psalm 14:3; Isaiah 53:1-3; Ecclesiastes 7:20; Romans 3:10-12, 3:23, and 5:12).

The three-fold attack on humanity through the flesh, the eyes and the pride in our achievements and possessions can be most easily seen in Genesis 3:1-7, one of the most foundational and pivotal passages in Scripture. There Satan utilized the same threefold temptation to attack his target. Adam and Eve succumbed in Genesis 3:6, plunging the human race into sin. When the woman saw that the tree was good for food, that it had a pleasing appearance and that the tree was desirable for making one wise, she took some of its fruit and ate. She also gave some to her husband, who was with her; and he ate. The Adversary appealed to Eve's desire for food (the desires of the old nature), her desire to have something attractive (the desires of the eyes), and her desire to have wisdom (the pride of life). Adam accepted the same enticements without protest and ate the fruit his wife gave him, and the Lawless One's kingdom gained its initial foothold on earth.

It is not surprising, then, to see that the world, under the Tempter's leadership, continues to assault sinners through those same three pathways of temptation. The Ruler of Darkness plays on the corruptibility of the fallen human heart to achieve the maximum impact for evil and chaos in the world. But we are not slaves to the diabolical, corrupt world system (Romans 6:5-14; James 4:7; First Peter 5:8-9; First John 4:1-6). Like our Lord, who has redeemed us, we possess the ability to successfully resist the temptations of this world (Romans 8:1-13; James 4:7).

3. Because of where the world is going: The world is passing away, and also its lusts; but the one who does the will of God lives forever (First John 2:15-17). The third reason we are not to love the world is because it is passing away. The principle of the kingdom of sin and death is the exact opposite of the principle of the Kingdom of Life and Righteousness. Therefore, the living dead in the world are destined for eternal death in hell, but believers are destined for eternal life in heaven (see the commentary on The Life of Christ Ms - The Eternal Security of the Believer). The one who does the will of God, who trusts and obeys Messiah, has nothing to fear concerning the world's process of self-destruction (First Thessalonians 1:10 and 5:9). It is God's will that people believe the Gospel, repent of their sin, and embrace Yeshua Messiah as their personal Lord and Savior (Mark 1:15; John 6:29; First Timothy 2:4-6). By doing this they will demonstrate that they love what ADONAI loves and hate what He hates. They will clearly no longer be devoted to the unbelieving world system and will shun its continuous appeal to sin, which comes through the desires of the old nature, the desires of the eyes, and pride in achievements and possessions.²⁰⁸

What is the future of disease or illness? In the present world . . . death. But in ADONAI's new creation, it will be done away with because of Messiah's victory over the grave. For the believer, this life of pollution and pain, of disease and death, will end with the glorification of the people of God. Because disease and death are incompatible with the glory of YHVH, nothing impure will enter the heavenly City (Revelation 21:27). The same promise has not been given to the wicked (Revelation 22:11).²⁰⁹ There is no middle ground.
