Love Does Not Envy

13: 4c

Here is the first of eight negative descriptions of love. Love does not envy (Greek: zeloi, meaning to be jealous). Love and envy are mutually exclusive. Shakespeare called jealousy “the green sickness” and Yeshua referred to it as an evil eye (Matthew 20:15 NKJV). Jealousy, or envy, has two forms. One form says, “I want what someone else has.” If they have a better car than we do, we want it. If they are praised for something they do, we want some or more for ourselves. That sort of jealousy is bad enough. However, a worse kind says, “I wish they didn’t have what they have” (Matthew 20:1-16). The second kind of jealousy is more than selfish; it is desiring evil for someone else. It is jealousy on the deepest, most corrupt, and destructive level. This is the jealousy Solomon uncovered in the woman who pretended to be a child’s mother. When her own infant died, she secretly exchanged him for the baby of a friend who was staying with her. The true mother discovered what had happened and, when their dispute was taken before the king, he ordered the baby cut in half, a half to be given to each woman. The true mother pleaded for the baby to be spared, even if it meant losing possession of him. The false mother, however, would rather have had the baby killed than for the true mother to have him (see the commentary on The Life of Solomon, to see link click At - A Wise Ruling).

Fury is cruel and anger overwhelming, but who can stand up to jealousy (Proverbs 27:4)? In its extreme, jealousy has a viciousness shared with no other sin. If you have bitter jealousy and selfish ambition in your heart, says James, do not be arrogant and so lie against the truth. This wisdom is not that which comes down from above, but is earthly, natural, demonic. For where jealousy and selfish ambition exist, there is disorder and every evil thing (James 3:14-16). Selfish ambition, which is fueled by jealousy, is often “successful.” But its wisdom is demonic and its worldly “success” is ultimately destructive.

Jealousy is not a moderate or harmless sin. It was Eve’s jealousy of God, sparked by her pride, to which Satan successfully appealed. She wanted to be like God, to have what He has and to know what He knows. Jealousy was an integral part of that first great sin, from which all other sin has descended. The next sin mentioned in Genesis is murder, caused by Cain’s sin of jealousy of his brother Abel (see the commentary on Genesis Bj - Your Brother’s Blood Cries Out to Me from the Ground). Joseph’s brothers sold him into slavery because of jealousy (see the commentary on Genesis Jb - Joseph’s Brothers Sold Him for Twenty Shekels of Silver). Dani’el was thrown into the lion’s den because of the jealousy of his fellow officials in Babylon. Jealousy causes the elder brother to resent the father’s attention to the prodigal son (see the commentary on The Life of Christ Hu - The Parable of the Lost Son and His Jealous Brother). And there are many other similar biblical illustrations.

One of the hardest battles a believer must fight is against jealousy. There is always someone who is a little better. But, love never detracts from the praise that is due to another, nor tries to make him seem less and self seem more by comparison. The practice of the world is quite the opposite. The negatives used in Paul’s description suggest corresponding positives. Instead of being envious, love is satisfied with its own portion and glad for others’ success.⁴⁰⁴ Envy was behind much of the party strife in the Corinthian church, Paul says as much (see Ar - The Immaturity of the Worldly Believer).

In sharp contrast to the many accounts of jealousy in the Corinthian church is the account of Jonathan’s agape love for David, who was not only greater and more popular than Jonathan, but was a threat to the throne that Jonathan normally would have inherited. Yet we are told of nothing by Jonathan’s great respect and love for his friend David, for whom he would willingly have sacrificed not only the throne but himself, he loved David as he loved his own life (First Samuel 20:17). Jonathan’s father, King Sha’ul, lost his throne and his blessing because of his jealousy, primarily of David (see the commentary on the Life of David Ao - Sha’ul’s Jealousy of David). Jonathan willingly gave up the throne and received a greater blessing because he would have nothing to do with jealousy.

Dear Heavenly Father, What a wonderful Father You are! Thank You for all the godly accounts of people in Your Word, people like Jonathan, who showed true love to his friend. Jonathan's willingness to give up his hereditary right to being Israel's king, so his friend could be king, shows a deep love that is so much more than mere words but is from the heart. That unselfish attitude helps us to understand how to live in a way that pleases You, even in hard and unfair situations. Having Your love and presence is such a great peace and comfort. What joy knowing that not only did You love us in the past and sent Your Son as our Redeemer (Second Corinthians 5:21), You love us now and will love us thru all eternity! When we live with the goal to please You in all we do and say, we do not need to get upset when discouragement comes our way. Living for Your approval is what counts for all eternity. We have an audience of One! It is refreshing to be able to put any bitter, unfair situation in Your hands, to turn from envy to Your loving arms. It is a joy to live following Your example of love. In Your Holy Son's name and power of His resurrection. Amen

When love sees someone who is popular, successful, beautiful, or talented, it is glad for them and never jealous or envious. Eliezer of Damascus was the heir to Abram's estate because he had no son (Genesis 15:2). When Isaac was born, however, and Eliezer lost the privileged inheritance, his love for Abram and Isaac never wavered (see the commentary on Genesis Fx - Go to My Country and My Own Relatives and Get a Wife for My Son Isaac). A loving person is never jealous, but is always glad for the success of others.⁴⁰⁵
